When locked up at West North Avenue Police Station Myers declared positively that he had thrown no eggs at Mr. Bryan personally, and had no intention whatever of hitting him. He declared that in his anxiety to obtain a good view of the candidate as he left the hall, he had crowded close to the carriage and that the driver had struck him with his whip in order to make him stand back. He returned to where his friends were standing and they promptly hurled the eggs at the driver, and that just as they did so, Mr. Bryan came through the doorway.

Myers declared that he was a Democrat, and would never have thought of throwing eggs at the candidate of his party. He declined to give the names of his companions, and could give no explanation of why they had come to the meeting carrying bad eggs in their pockets.
